

Coloma at the Royal Albert Hall School Proms for the Second Consecutive Year

November 2015

Coloma's Junior Chamber Choir has performed at the Royal Albert Hall in the School Proms both in 2014 and now in 2015 which is an incredible achievement. They have been commended for the "beautiful blend of their voices, their commitment to their performance" and the fact that they are "perennially lovely to hear".

The National Festival of Music for Youth stages the largest festival of music in the UK in which thousands of young musicians perform in a series of regional events. Some groups are invited to participate in the National Festival which is held in Birmingham each year and then some of the best go on to perform in the School Proms in the Albert Hall.

Mrs Hilary Meyer, Head of Music at Coloma commented, “The girls have worked extremely hard to reach such an amazing standard and we are all extremely proud of their achievements”.

Coloma is a Catholic comprehensive school with a massive tradition of musical success. The next event for the busy department is the annual Christmas Concert at the Fairfield Halls in Croydon. This popular event is always guaranteed not only to showcase the talent of all the girls participating, but also to inspire and thrill the audience who will come back year after year to appreciate the quality and enjoy the fun.
