In the next of our features we introduce Matthew Bambury a Corporate Lawyer.

Matthew Bambury was a student at Kenilworth School & Sixth Form, completing his A-levels in 2011. After leaving Sixth Form, Matthew went on to study Law at Nottingham University, graduating in 2014.

Matthew was fully involved with university life and became a brand manager for one of the leading global law firms in London. Matthew worked with the law school, law firm and students, promoting careers within the legal sector. Matthew was successful in this role; securing a vacation scheme and training contract in the 2nd year of his Law degree.

Once graduated, Matthew took a year out before moving to London to study his LPC. Matthew has just passed his LPC with distinction and starts his training contract as a corporate lawyer with one of the largest global law firms Norton Rose Fulbright.
