

ALUMNI

Nicola and Leigh Anne Davidson both studied at Kenilworth School and after university have gone on to work both in the public and private sector and now work for themselves very successfully.

Nicola left Kenilworth with A levels in Art, English and History and completed her Art degree in Falmouth, she then trained as an Art teacher and worked in Devon for several years before moving back to live in Leamington. She then held down a job as Head of Art at a local school before developing her skills as an early years practitioner. Now she has set up and runs her very successful own Nursery called Minikins and has since got married and had two lovely boys of her own.

Leigh Ann studied English Language, Maths and Business and undertook much travelling after university but is now working as a consultant for her family business. Previously she worked in both the public and private sectors in the finance and accounts division for a range of organisations. Her job now entails implementing correct financial policies and procedures in both public and private companies. She also works as a trainer for companies that wish to be audited by external governing bodies and this work takes her all over the country.

However as she is also a qualified Yacht Master, she has delivered yachts all over the world and last June she delivered a yacht from the Azores to Plymouth. Nice work if you can get it!
