Dear Families,

The summer term is set to be a busy one. This week alone has an artist coming to spend the day photographing Year 3 who will become part of an exhibition at Tate Modern, plus on Thursday Pierre Henry Fontaine, the ex basketball player will be talking to all of the children about his sporting career and putting the children through their paces. All children should wear their PE kits all day on Thursday. We have purchased lots of basket balls in anticipation of a craze starting following his visit.

This term is also a hardworking term. Children in Year 2 will sit their SATs during May and the phonics screener will take place in June, as will the assessments for the end of reception. If you were not able to attend the Y2 SATs meeting, please find attached some information.

Nicola Dudley, Headteacher

PiPS Disco and Fam Jam

Thank to you all involved in organising and running the discos, they were a fun way to end the term and the children seemed to really enjoy themselves. The evening disco as also a nice opportunity for families to socialise which was an added bonus.

Easter Deep Clean

School is aware that quite a few children were ill at the start of the holidays so to help combat any further sharing of germs we commissioned a deep clean in the holidays so hopefully that will. We ask for families to please follow the guidance on returning to school or to school events after children are ill as it can make a huge difference to illness being contained. The office team can remind parents of the time their children should be off for each type of illness if you are unsure.

Menu for this week

The Millbrook kitchen is now being run by 'Chefs in Schools' and we have employed an experienced and energetic new chef who is starting today. We are very excited about the changes that are going to happen with food in the future here as Chefs in Schools put in place their ethos and approach to food and cooking. Naturally, when any new system is put in place it takes time to embed it so in the short term the chef is going to keep the menu simple and tasty to give himself time to get to know the children, staff and the kitchens. Once Michal has settled in he will meet with some parents and pupils to devise the longer term menu. I have already discussed with him the importance of equality for different families cultural needs and that will be discussed further at the menu planning meeting. For this first week the menu is:
