Dear Families

The end of term is upon us all and despite the unseasonably warm and damp weather, the Christmas spirit is filling our classes.

Despite rumours of winding down for the week, we are as busy as ever with Nativities, Carol services and all the business of tidying up for the end of term. The school postal delivery service is working overtime as children and staff send each other cards and Christmas greetings. There is a lot of 'Christmas-stuff' to get through before the week is out!

It has been another very busy term with our new Nursery and Year 1 classes now feeling as if they have always been there. Our oldest children continue to lead the school in terms of behaviour and commitment to learning whilst our very youngest have quickly picked up the schools ethos within the safe environment of the nursery.

Sadly, we are saying good bye to Flo Okafor who we wish well in her future career.

Finally, I'd like to take this chance to wish you all a very peaceful Christmas.
