The Governing Body is committed to ensuring staff, students, volunteers, visitors and contractors enjoy a safe working and learning environment. The aim of this guidance is to reduce the impact of critical incidents on staff and lessen the likelihood of long term detriment by means of a consistent, co-ordinated and effective support mechanism.

A critical incident is defined as any situation faced by an individual that causes them to experience unusually strong reactions that can interfere with life at work and/or home. It is something a person experiences which is outside the range of usual human experience and that would be significantly distressing to anyone.

This guidance supports the organization in meeting the requirements of health and safety legislation as specified in the Health and Safety at Work Act 1974 and the Management of Health and Safety Regulations 1992. These place a ‘duty of care’ on organisations, with an onus on assessing all risks to staff and putting in place measures to reduce them as is reasonably practicable in the circumstances.

This document has also been drafted to comply with the principles of the Human Rights Act.
