

Ruckus

The clip has no speech. Imagine that the brothers were talking to each other throughout the ruckus- what do you think they would say? What would the tone/ atmosphere be like? Write the conversation between them as they chase each other for the diamond.

Ruckus

Next, remembering the rules for writing dialogue, use the speech bubbles you completed on the previous page to write a dialogue/ conversation between the brothers. Below is an example for you to read first.

Well known amongst the criminal underground, the conniving pair had been in the business for years and were always adequately prepared for a jewel heist. However, what neither of them knew was that, this time, they each had their own agenda...

"Here it comes, Frank", the brother whispered to his twin as the cargo train approached over the desert horizon. Jason glared a stony stare through the smoke rising from his cigarette. He felt an excited thrill rising in his stomach as adrenaline began to pump. "Let's do this Franky", he growled.

A brawl broke out as soon as they realised what was really happening, "Get your filthy hands off it, it's mine!" yelled Jason.

"I don't think so, bro! You always get the goods. This time, it's my turn!" screeched Frank as he held the diamond in the air.

Suddenly, the train bumped on the track and the rare diamond was thrown across the crate. "You double-crossing traitor! Call yourself a twin!" Jason shouted angrily, lassoing a length of rope around Frank's ankle.
