

Encompass Learning Alliance

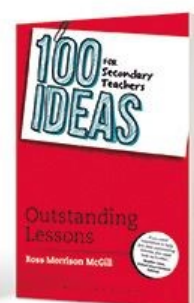

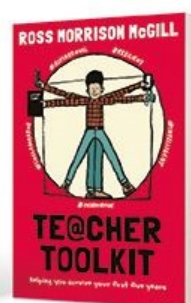

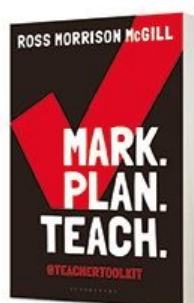

Your local Teaching School

Mark, Plan, Teach

Date: Friday 19th October 2018

Ross Morrison McGill is @TeacherToolkit, the most followed educator on Twitter in the UK and founder of one of the most popular education websites in the UK.

@TEACHERTOOLKIT
Classroom Ideas, Teacher Training, School Resources

Save time. Reduce workload. Impact learning.

Discover the 'Teach' - What improves teachers?

Ross McGill has established a very high profile and reputation for providing practical, accessible advice for teachers in a bite-size, easily applicable format. The importance of the ordering of "mark, plan, teach" itself makes a very powerful statement about what teachers need to have a grip of before entering the classroom – something that can easily be overlooked by novice teachers. It is particularly pleasing that the approach taken by McGill throughout faces, head-on, the complex reality of classrooms and the importance of understanding the many component, interrelated elements involved in creating effective learning experiences. The approaches and resources outlined in the book would definitely be a valuable aid to teachers who are juggling priorities and needing some "quick wins" to support effective practice.

To learn more about Ross, click the following link for his bio: Ross McGill

Outline for the day:

AM:		PM:
09:30-11:00	MARK	13:00-14:15	TEACH
11:00-11:15	Coffee/Tea	14:15-14:30	Coffee/Tea
11:15-12:15	PLAN	14:30-15:00	PLENARY
12:15-13:00	LUNCH

VENUE:

St. Francis School, Coronation Road, South Ascot, Berks. SL5 9HG

The best INSET rarely does one size fits all but @TeacherToolkit breaks the mould. Ross gave us an energetic and inspirational morning of ideas tailored to our needs-theory, pedagogy and practical ideas to advance our learning and teaching—just brilliant." Alastair Armstrong, Assistant Head Teacher, Fettes College, Edinburgh (January 2018)

Encompass@stfrancisprimary.org

Heavily subsidised rate of £75/delegate

Tel: 01344 622840