Literacy and numeracy: Students are expected to 'annotate' their work in their sketchbook and comment on how they feel their work is progressing. Could you ask your son/daughter what they think of their work on each page? What went well? What materials/skills did they use? This types of questions can help then find 'personal reflective comments' to write in their book next to the work in question.
What can I do to help my child? Visits to galleries and exhibitions- even local galleries can open minds in terms of 'what is out there'. Free exhibitions take place at the IKON gallery and Birmingham Art Gallery in B'ham. Tate Modern and Tate Britain in London is great for a broad overview of Art. Local galleries include Compton Verney the other side of Wellesbourne. Ensuring coursework is up to date and is presented with care
